Forward

This policy is written in alignment with National Minimum Boarding Standards 2022 and Keeping Children Safe in Education 2023 (KCSiE).

Nutritional guideline information is available in the boarding accommodation for all students. This is essential to encourage a healthy balanced diet and is useful for students in boarding who have their meals provided but may choose to snack between meals.

15-18 Boarding:

The catering team prepare nutritionally balanced meals with choice and variety in sufficient quantity to ensure all students are able to eat a hot meal every day. Meals are prepared off-site and transported to the boarding houses each day. Careful consideration and robust checks are in place to ensure the safety, quality and freshness of the food, and to ensure it is preserved appropriately, meeting hygiene legislation.

A stock of other foods is delivered weekly e.g. bread, cheese, ham, eggs, yogurt, fresh fruit, tea, coffee, biscuits. Breakfasts are continental and students help themselves which is overseen by the Houseparent's. The student kitchens are equipped with a microwave and basic equipment, towels, chopping boards etc. for lunch or a snack the students may want to make. Instruction on how to use the equipment are given by the Houseparent's when the student arrives and as required throughout the students stay.

Students are able to cook and prepare meals themselves once they have completed a short training course with the staff. For safety reasons, students remain under the guidance of the boarding staff, are only able to cook within specific timeframes and only with permission.

Students have access to the kitchens 24/7 where there is always access to fresh water and the ability to make a hot drink. Fruit, bread and other snacks are always available to the students when they want it, although we discourage regular 'midnight snacking.'

Each student is allocated a cupboard in the nearest kitchen to their room and allocated space in the fridge and freezer so that they can store the foods they like.

Food Service

The evening meal is served in the boarding houses by the Houseparents. In order to maintain good hygiene practices, anyone serving food, is required to wear a plastic apron and disposable gloves. If the server has a cold, cough or chest infection they will also be required to wear a face covering.

Meeting particular student needs

Students discuss likes/dislikes with the Houseparent's and/or the Head of House (HoH) and both liaise with the catering manager regarding any specific requests; likes or dislikes, and any dietary requirements which may be religious, allergy related or intolerant of various food types so that any adjustments needed can be made.

Students with allergies or intolerances have meals pre-plated so that they can be protected from cross contamination and given independently of the other food.

Temperature checks are taken before serving any meals to ensure that the food has maintained sufficient heat during transport in the hot boxes. Any foods that don't meet the requirements will be disposed of and an alternative sort. High risk foods, for example shellfish or raw sprouts, are avoided from the menu to protect the students.

Student Feedback

Student feedback is sought every term (although students will speak to a Houseparent, to discuss any food issues as and when they arise). The catering manager, Houseparent's and HoH regularly liaise with each other to check the fridges and larders so that the food stock 'drop off' meets the needs of the students, for example in the winter students may need more milk to make hot chocolate drinks or porridge in the morning.

The menus are published every six weeks and are visible on notice boards so that students know what choices they have for their evening meal. There is always a vegetarian option.

There is a "Boarder's Voice" meeting each term at the boarding houses with the HOH, Houseparent's, Director of Boarding, Independent Person (IP) and the boarding students. Food is always one of the agenda items and an open (though constructive) discussion is encouraged with all parties regarding food. The IP always has a slot at the end of the meeting to speak with the students without College staff being present, this provides the students with an opportunity to feedback any concerns they may not wish to share with the College staff directly.

The HoH meets with the students in between the termly meetings and any concerns that are raised are fed back to the Vice Principal and catering manager.

Feedback to the students after each meeting is posted on the notice boards in the boarding houses, which provides students with the acknowledgment of their issues or concerns and informs them of the actions that have been taken in response.
